

The Making of a Modern Day Chief: Charlie Cooke

Please Join Us for a Special Campfire Program

July 15 - 8-9 p.m. - Lodgepole Campfire – Sequoia National Park, Lodgepole Campground Amphitheater (near Loop B)

July 16 - 8-9 p.m. - Evening Program at Kings Canyon National Park, Grant Grove, Sunset Campground Amphitheater

Dr. Mary Louise Contini Gordon, author, will take you on a photographic journey about Chumash Chief Charlie Cooke from her recent book, TIQ SLO'W: The Making of a Modern Day Chief. Charlie Cooke collaborated with national and state parks and their leaders at sites in Chumash territory along the California Coast. The story includes the relentless dedication of this cowboy, truck driver, and war veteran to American Indian sites/culture and national and state parks—in some cases one and the same.

July 16 - 10-10:30 a.m. AND 10:30-11 a.m. - Sequoia National Park
Lodgepole Visitor Center

BOOKSIGNING - TIQ SLO'W: The Making of a Modern Day Chief

Dr. Mary Louise Contini Gordon, author, will provide a 10-minute introduction to her book at 10 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. and will sign her books afterwards. Her book, TIQ SLO'W: The Making of a Modern Day Chief, focuses on Chumash Chief Charlie Cooke, who collaborated with national and state parks and their leaders at sites in Chumash territory along the California Coast. The story includes the relentless dedication of this cowboy, truck driver, and war veteran to American Indian sites/culture and national and state parks—in some cases one and the same.